Huma-Lupa-Licious IPA

A complex malt and hop theme park in your mouth

Named after the hop flower Humulus Lupulus, this best selling India pale ale style beer has enormous amounts of hops which really seems like a punch in the face. Hop flowers from the numerous strains used in this recipe render a delicious bitter taste and enticing citrus aroma.

Flavors from a hearty malt bill meld with the hops to balance this ale and provide a ridiculous urge to sample more.

Pandemonium Pale Ale

Behold the bitter hysteria

Our classic American pale ale lends its copper color to the rich specialty grains. This craft ale is balanced with four kettle hop additions to a near IPA quality. It is one of the few beers we finish through whole leaf hops lending a nice fresh earthy aroma and flavor.

The Bellaire Brown

The hub of the village

A brown ale so rich, it's hardly classifiable as brown. It's born of copious amounts of hearty pale ale malt, and several specialty selections which make it a dark, rich and delicious masterpiece. Very light hop additions allow the malty sweetness and flavor complexity to be most protuberant. A beer so user friendly, we dub this the "gateway" beer

The Magician

A lustrous dark red London ale. Rich malt complexities lending notes of toasted caramel, raisins, toffee, and slight roast chocolate. Very light hop additions let the true malt characters promenade throughout the tasting enjoyment this beer offers. It's a new member of our beer family and has gone over so well, we're making it year round.
